THE ORGANIZATION OF EXTENSION CLASSES

Required number of students for a class: The Extension Division will be unable to establish a class for fewer than twenty paid registrations. The more applicants for the class the greater the likelihood there is that the class will be established.

Classroom to be provided by the class: Because of the extra expense involved in sending faculty members to extension centers, it will be necessary for the members of the class to arrange for a suitable meeting place for class sessions. Usually, arrangements can be made through the local school or the county superintendent so that suitable space is provided at little or no cost.

When will a class be organized? The Extension Division will organize classes after it is apparent that twenty or more students will enroll in a particular course, and that a suitable classroom is available without cost to the Division. Since the number of classes that can be offered in any one subject is limited by the qualified faculty available for any one quarter, the Extension Division will find it necessary to refuse petitions as soon as the available faculty have been assigned.

What will it cost to register in an extension class? The cost of registering for a four hour undergraduate course is $16.00 plus a book rental fee of $1.50. Graduate credit requires the payment of a fee of $5.00 per credit hour, in addition to the Graduate Matriculation Fee for those who have not previously enrolled in the Graduate School.

Who may register for extension classes? The same regulations govern entrance to extension classes that apply to classes in residence at Mississippi Southern College. Persons who are teaching full-time are permitted to register for not more than eight hours in extension or extension and correspondence combined.

Graduate Credit: Graduate credit will be given in courses numbered over 500, and by permission in certain senior college courses where such practice is permissible on the campus.

Faculty Qualifications: Faculty members who teach in our Extension Division have met the same high standards as are required of all faculty members on the staff of Mississippi Southern College, and they teach on the campus during the spring and summer terms.
